

Haryana: Police busts fake liquor factory, 5000 empty bottles recovered

It has been told that Panchkula Police had received information that the business of making spurious liquor was going on in Plot No. 101 in Alipore Industrial Area. Only after getting the information, the police came into action and attacked them directly.

The business of spurious liquor continues on a large scale. Many people are losing their lives because of this spurious liquor. Action is taken by the police, but still, fake liquor is being sold indiscriminately in the market and many people are also consuming it due to lack of information in the village. But in the meantime a fake liquor factory has been busted in Haryana. Big action has been taken by Panchkula Police.

Fake liquor factory busted

It has been told that Panchkula Police had received information that the business of making spurious liquor was going on in Plot No. 101 in Alipore Industrial Area. Only after getting the information, the police came into action and attacked them directly. On reaching the spot, more than 5000 empty plastic bottles and water tankers have been recovered by the police.

After this action, ACP Rajkumar Kaushik told that just two days ago, during the joint operation of Panchkula Police and CM Flying Squad, a large consignment of spurious liquor was recovered during raid in plot number 187 in Alipore industrial area. At that time, a huge amount of alcohol-making chemical was also recovered. In this case 4 people were arrested from the spot.

Poisonous liquor business in UP

The business of spurious and poisonous liquor is not limited to Haryana only. Rather, the business of spurious liquor is going on on a large scale in the largest state of the country, Uttar Pradesh and many people are also losing their lives by consuming it.

Recently, seven people died due to drinking spurious liquor in village Karsua under police station Lodha area of Aligarh. The local people had told that the deceased had bought liquor from the village's contract and drank it. Taking action in this case, CM Yogi Adityanath had given instructions to impose NSA against the accused, while on his behalf it was also said to help the victims.

Now in this Panchkula case also, the police will try to know here that since when the work of making this fake liquor was going on and how much of this fake goods of this factory has been sold in the market. LIVE TV
